

Review: “ADV” Dual Sport Helmet by Fulmer

Written by Cara Mae McGuire

A supermoto junkie’s dream come true!

Giving in to my love for all things dirt, I recently acquired a SuperMoto XF200 dual sport motorcycle, which for some who may not know, is a bike that can go both on and off road. So when the road less traveled looks more enticing than the paved tarmac... I am just a zip away to blowing dust, communing with nature, and then back again to the hard road home with none the wiser. But with this new acquisition, comes the need for a new lid that would not only match the style of my new beast, but also be able to safely perform in harmony with it as well. After doing some research, I spotted the Fulmer ADV helmet on some of the adventure touring forums and my interest was piqued: affordable, functional, and stylish? I had to find out for myself.

Style & Fit

Take a motocross helmet add a clear shield and viola! My first impression of the Fulmer ADV helmet was overall joy. The helmet is black with silver trimming and vents. The graphics on it I could live

Review: "ADV" Dual Sport Helmet by Fulmer

Written by Cara Mae McGuire

ADV is a high-tech, more efficient "streetfighter" style helmet

Review: "ADV" Dual Sport Helmet by Fulmer

Written by Cara Mae McGuire

None of the photos, back panel and graphics